

Shape your own destiny

A one day workshop with Ghata

In this workshop you will get clear about your present values and the conscious or unconscious rules you might hold around them. You will discover if these values are still supporting the direction that you would like to take in life. Most likely you will find the true source of some of your challenges and even more importantly you will understand how unconscious values keep you limited! As you become aware of hidden priorities and inner rules you are able to change your values in a way that helps you to direct your destiny consciously.

"I was invited to a Tony Robbins Seminar last year and to my own surprise, I enjoyed it a lot. Some of the things I learned were really useful and deep. This one day event is inspired by some of the things I learned and discovered during that seminar and I am very happy to share them with you. The insights and results for myself and have been amazing and transformative.

The prerequisite for this workshop is, that you are aware that we each create our own experiences and thus that we are able to change our lives." Ghata
